THE PAREWRIA ADDRESS of Gene-ral Washington is the condensed result ral Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with fareign puttings: of excountribut for foreign outions; of encouraging for-eign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wis-dom and affection, be so published, as dom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our

To make it such, s the aim of the raposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

Mr. GEORGE BRIDFORT will com-plete the Design; of which the follow-ing is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, is highly finished ornamental penmunship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate orna-ments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. FIFTY DOLLARS PEWARD.

I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stone-mason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.—He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair: he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Cohagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and theother he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villany.

Daily Gazette, 7 dolls ... Country, 5 dolls. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1818.

Erratum, or lapsus pennæ, in the con nunication of yesterday:-For "duo in upum," read duo in two.

At an election for directors of the Colum bian Insurance Office of this place, held on Monday last, the following gentlemen were chosen :

R. Veitch, G. Coleman Wm. Hodgson, James Sanderson, G. Coleman, A. Crease, J. Harper, T. Vowell. B. Dangerfield, J. G. Ladd, D. Somers, John Jackson,

Furious impatience of any sort of disobe dience, and an implacable abhorrence of those who derided their measures, were conspicuous characteristics of both these men. In the face of the commissioners of parliament, Cromwell caused the king to be arrested in the Isle of Wight. He suddenly surrounded the house of commons with his guards in November, 1748; entered it, and arrested forty-one members : an universal outcry was raised against this unprecedented outrage-but be not only remained obstinately regardless of the public voice, but grew more furious upon it .-On an another occasion, he contented himself with writing a short note to the speaker, in these words: "dissolve the parliament in my name, for the good of the com monwealth requires that it should immediately separate." When the commons attempted to deprive him of the diploma of Protector, he himself threw it down upon the table: " what man amongst you all (he exclaimed) has the heart to take it away from there ?"-and in the ebullition of his rage, he at the same time dashed his watch against the floor, and cried aloud. 'thus will I break you!" He thought fit to rid himself of the upper house, and thence the generous Fairfax resigned his dignities, and, resolving to interfere no longer in the government, retired to his seat in the neighborhood of London. Cromwell then appointed a council of state, consisting of forty members, and composed of his relations and creatures, which was obliged to obey him. Of proposals of peace from the Dutch, be absolutely refused to hear in any other place than London:—there they must come and sue for it. He precipitated the fall of lord Strafford, because he perceived that that nobleman saw through his designs; and he brought the virtuous Archbishop of Can-terbury to the scaffold, because he hated him. Montrose, the bravest and best, as well as the most beloved, I might say adored, of the British nobility, was outlawed by Cromwell, and, when taken, fell a victim to his insatiable malignity, although sovereigns interceded in his behalf; for Cromwell felt that, if not his superior in talents, he was infinitely his superior in virthe and character He ordered two men to he executed at Colchester because one of his favorites hated them. The earl of Danby, and above thirty noblemen and magistrates were beheaded on account of their loyalty to their sovereign. The duke of Buckingham was sent to the tower and persecuted, because he refused to marry the usurper's daughter. And such was the sanguinary cruelty of his heart, that he coolly beheld from his window, with his arms reposing on silk cushions, the execution of king. With the most inflexible malignity, he persecuted the unfortunate survivors of the house of Stuart, and expressly declared that no alliance with himself could take place, whilst they were protected and shel-

Oliver, not less than Napoleon, felt a disposition to rob foreign countries, whenever he found himself the strongest, although they had done him no injury. For instance, he compelled the grand duke of Tuscany to pay him 60,000 pistoles; and Portugal was forced to purchase his alliance with a donation of 200,000 of the same coin. Every one acquainted with the character of Bonaparte, has heard of his excessive irritability, on occasions of satirical writings. This was so much the foible of Cromwell. that it was said by his panegyrists, (for even he had his praisers) to be his only vulnerable part. His connection with cardinal Mazarii, for instance, was lampooned in a pamphlet entitled "Europe crucified be-tween two thickes." In vain Cromwell used his utmost endeavors to suppress such writings—they increased daily, and depri-ted him of rest by aight, and of peace by day; and a pamphlet entitled "killing no harder," filled him with continual horror being obliged to querter a barp with their round the Cape. The Bengal passed St. brought by capt. Bell, of the schr Decatur, coats of arms. Napoleon could not refrain Helena Sept. 9th, and was boarded from from St. Thomas, puts that to rest. Brion, people believe that he esteemed the arts, and learned men-but, as is generally the case with tyrants, inwardly detested them. He ordered the professors of Cambridge university to be publicly flogged. The library of scarce oriental manuscripts at Oxford, was committed by his orders to the flames, for no other reason but because they were presented to that university by the op of Canterbury. Napoleon admired the arts and artists, did all he could to encourage literature and scholars, and made the world his debtor for very valuable literary institutions. In this respect h was, in comparison with Oliver, a saint to a savage.

Cromwell was as conspicuous for that worst of vices-ingratitude, as for active malevolence.-He turned his back on his first patron and benefactor, the duke of Buckingham, when that nobleman's credit fell into the wane; and to his old preceptor Long, he gave a cool and haughty reception, because he differed from him in opinion. Of Napoleon's ingratitude I have never heard—but on the contrary, have read many splendid instances demonstrative of a grateful heart.

Both were, naturally enough, in frequent danger of assassination-a misfortune from which not even the virtues of a Henry IV. can secure men who stand on such a conspicuous eminence as sovereigns do. But here the courage of Cromwell forsook him, and be played the coward, adopting a variety of precautions to secure himself. He established a guard called the Red Brethren-never slept two nights running in one chamber-employed spies at the rate of 60 thousand pounds a year-always wore armor, and was surrounded by faithful adherents He made no scruple to seize those of whom he stood in fear, in foreign countries, and had them brought to London and beheaded. So it happened to Henry Hyde, Charles II.'s ambassador, who was by his orders carried off from Constantinople. Bonaparte, tho' in an instance or two he would have his enemies trepanned in foreign countries and butchered at Paris, disdained to seek safety from assassination by concealment or skulking. He was always to be seen abroad, and every day presented himself boldly to the eyes of the people.

MASONIC LIBERALITY. It is stated in an Auburn paper, that the Hiram Lodge in that village, has voted a donation of five hundred dollars to a Theological Seminary which is about to be established in the western district of the state of Vermont.

At the annual cattle show of the agricultural society of Jefferson county, the president, Le Ray de Chaumont, presented an ox, which obtained the premium, and weighed rising 20 cwt. The or was afterwards made a present to the society, and sold at auction for six hundred dollars.

PLEASING APPOINTMENT.

We have reason to believe, that the re fort to which the Columbian has given publicity, is true, that General Swift has received the appointment of Surveyor of the port of New-York, and that he will immediately enter upon the duties of his office.

P. S. After the above had passed from the hands of the compositor, it was intimated to us, that Gen. Swift is appointed Collector of the port.

General S. and his family, have recently arrived in town from Washington, in company with the Hon. Mr. Clay, Speaker of the House of Representatives .- N. Y. Gaz.

A letter from St. Jago de Chili, dated July 9th received per America, details the following ;-A number of vessels arrived lately at Coquimbo, whose names, except the Macedonian of Boston, I bave not yet learned. A number of vessels have also arrived here, principally British, with cargoes from 4 to 500,000 each, and Packet, from Boston, with a cargo of 300,000. The anticipated fall of Lima has ruined this market. The amount of property brought here within the last 12 months is calculated at near ten million of dollars.

The Patriots since their last successes have passed their time in feasting and rejoicing; the Royalists are still in possession of Valdivia, the port of Talcuanha and Conception, but the Patriots are going against them in September, and no apprehension but they will be easily conquered, and indeed Lima is shaking, as they intend to march against it as soon as they drive them entirely from this province. The Vice Roy is said to have sued for a truce of five years, which was very wisely declined. The Spanish messenger came in the U. S. sloop Ontario and returned in her to Lima. The Ontario sailed thence 14th June for the N. W. coast. Judge Prevost has not gone n her, he is in this capital.

They are suffering very much at Lima for wheat, beef, &c. &c. which they formerly frew in a great abundance from this prorince. If the supply continues cut off, as igorously as commenced, a revolution was trongly expected. There are 33 vessels n Valparaiso, among them the British sloop f war Blossom, capt. Hickey; the British rigate Andromache sailed a few days since or Lima; there is no Spanish blockading quadron off, since the drubbing the Esmealda got.

The ship Bever and brig Canton, of New York, are reported to have been condemnd in Conception.

P. S. When the Ontario sailed, Judge revost remained here, but it now appears hat be is going on to the N. W. coast in the British sloop of war Blossom, capt. Hickey. Capt. H. goes on to renounce all claim to he settlement at Columbia river in the iame of the British government, and the American Commissioner goes there in the akes this, will be able to give a better hisory of that business.

[Baltimore Telegraph, Nov. 2.

As we surmised, the story of capt. Thomas who was brought in here a few days ago in an armed brigantine by the revenue cutter, proves to be somewhat crooked and little tough withal. We find by the Savannah papers, that this same brigantine boarded, under the name of the Fortunatus, instead of the Columbia, (which last name she now bears) the brig Governor Hopkins. Adams, from Providence, R. I. bound to Savannah, and put on board said brig, capt. John Adam, an officer in the Patriot service, who stated that the Fortunatus was taken possession of on the night of the 29th of September, by a gang of 26 desperadoes, headed by an officer in the Patriot service. while at anchor under the fort at Grenada This was effected while the commander of the Fortunatus was ashore recruiting men, and when there were only three or four men on board to oppose them. As there were only 16 men on board the Fortunatus, alias the Columbia, when she came in here, it would be gratifying to know what has become of the other ten; perhaps they may have been disposed of in manning prizes.

As for the rigmarole about Brion's offivessels of his squadron, the intelligence brought by capt. Bell, of the schr Decatur with the whole of his squadron (5 sail) was at the Five Islands, long after capt, Tho-mas took French leave of Grenada. [Norfolk Herald.

ALGERINE CAPTIVITY

The brave Captain Schuman, lately returned home, confirms literally the accounts of his captivity and liberation from the Algerine pirates; as likewise the pilot Taylor and the seaman Muller, of the village of Tentendorf, in the Lubec territory; as likewise the cabin-boy, Wm. Thee, who were taken in the vessel commanded by capt. Shuman, and carried to Algiers. They have arrived in our town and give the following detail of their adventures:—Besides them, there was also the cook's mate, Rusman, of Petersburg, whither he has already returned. In the Algerine vessel; they were placed on deck near the guns, without straw. The ship's provisions being nearly exhausted, from a cruise of four months near the Canaries, they had daily, as had also the Corsairs, a piece of black moist bread, and some oil and vinegar, and a glass of water; at the end of their voyage they were reduced to bread and water. On the second day of their captivity, the pirates took a Hamburg vessel, named Reysursteig, the crew of which were put in the same place with them. Except bad food and lodging they do not complain of ill usage; on the contrary the chief pilot, a renegado, encouraged them constantly not to be alarmed as to their becoming slaves, for the English had opposed this. On the 1st of August 1817, 10 A. M. they arrived in Algiers, and were taken out to the slave bag-nios. Except themselves, all the slaves were gone. Their daily tood was four black loaves and water except some apples given to them in charity from some Jews, black loaves and water except some apples given to them in charity from some Jews, for refreshment. In the slave bagnios, there was no other furniture than a wooden bench: they were obliged therefore, to sleep on the stone floor. On the following day, the 2d Aug. the pilot Taylor, was brought before the government, composed day, the 2d Aug. the pilot Taylor, was brought before the government, composed of ten members, besides the Swedish and other Consuls General; after answering many questions proposed by the Swedish Consul, concerning the vessel and her cargo, he said that he was loaded with flax and flaxseed, loaded for Correil, that the Captain was of Holstein and himself an Englishman. After the Swedish Consul had conferred with the members of the Regency, he told Taylor that he and his crew were free, and that as soon as the vessel, which he told Taylor that he and his crew were free, and that as soon as the vessel, which was taken, and expected every day, should arrive, they could depart. Soon after he was brought back to the slave bagnio, but called, at 2 o'clock after dinner, by the Dragoman, before the Sweaish consul—the consul had given him permission to stay in his house, nevertheless advised him to avoid the rage of the mob, and to go out as little as possible. Three days after he forbid them going out.

The Consul departed next day for his The Consul departed next day for his country house, but assigned them four Spanish piastres per week for their allowance, that they should be satisfied with it, and ordered that his servant should receive their instructions as to making purchases for their daily food. When the consul returned to town, he told them that in eight days they might return in a schooner which was then unloading her cargo—they might proceed. unloading her cargo—they might proceed to Leghorn, and he left it to them if they would go immediately on board or stay in his house till the vessel was ready—they prefered the first; five days after they were ordered to come to the country house of the Swedish Consul, and commanded to stay until the vessel taken from

After the Swedish consul had given them again the assurance that he would do all in his power, in conjunction with the English consul, that they should not be put with the Turkish slaves, and that they should work separate from them! they were brought again to the slave bagnio, where they remained afterwards; they had an inspector constantly with them, who treated them with humanity and they had no irons on like the Turkish slaves. Their labor consisted in pumping ont the water from an old barge, which would not have been labor, if the heat had not been so great; besides four small loaves not been so great; besides four small loaves British sloop of war to settle matters. From the 17th of September to the 18th of November, they were in slavery; during the time of their abode in Algiers, the pilot, Taylor, had been eighteen days, and the seaman, Muller, eight days, dangerously ill, without medical aid. After their deliverance, they were conducted by the port ca; ain to the Swedish consul, and had persistent take the few rose they had in the mission to take the few rags they had in the slave bagnio. The Swedish consul could not explain to whom they were indebted

After they had performed quarantine they went ashore. Muller and Thee received some assistance from the English consul at Genoa, who sent them in a Danish brig commanded by Captain Jurgenis to Cadiz; from whence they came by land to Lisbon, and then returned with a Bremen captain, under the Hamoverian flag, to Hamburg. Taylor and Schuman were not so fortunate in Genoa—they had been seized by the police and thrown into prison, from which they only came out by Taylor leaving his watch, and Schuman some money, which he had got at Algiers by working as a tailor. By these means they obtained passports; after having received them, they left Genoa instantly, and on foot to Legiorn; here they received money and passports from the Russian consul, and paying two rix dollars weekly for their board, they were brought back by capt. Meinertz to Drontheim, in Norway, to Hamburg. They arrived there on the 2d July—the monay arread for their board.

Gunston for Sala.

Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tests so as to have one or more fish-ver channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve moaths, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Bal'amore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given forgrain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, buses, three commodious barns, house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of line are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corg, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The riverreclaimed at a trifling expense. The and creeks, abound with wild fowl, cularly canvass backs, the woods with deer cularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county. Valuable Property for Sale.

Valuable Property for Sale.

The subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriying meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is, on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow,—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servents, male and female. To revent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HER.

For Sale. A valuable Farm in Jefferson County.

Ty virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Chancery for the Fredericksburg District in Virginia, in a suit wherein the Executors of Gen. George Washington were complainants; and Gerard Alexander, Thomas L. Alexander, (by Ludwell Lee, his appointed guardian) Ludwell Lee, R'd. H. L. Washington, John A. Washington, Bushrod C. Washington, and Mary Lee Washington, were defendants, will be exposed to sale to the highest bidder on the premises, on Faiday the 20th day of November next, all that tract of land lying in vember next, all that tract of land lying in Jefferson County, Virginia, on Bullskin, commonly called Rockball, containing 540 acres, now in the occupation of John Saun-

The above tract of land lies about sixteen miles from Winchester, and about six from Charlestown, on the main road leading from Winchester to Baltimore, the city of Washington and Alexandria. It is well adapted ington and Alexandria. It is well adapted to plaster and clover, and is in quality little inferior, if at all, to any farm in that fertile walley. The improvements on it are a large two story frame dwelling house, a barn and other necessary out houses.—The water is limestone and of excellent quality.

The terms of sale will be one-third of the purchase money, and the balance to be paid with interest, in one, two and three annual instalments, to be secured by a deed of trust on the property.

Any person wishing to view the land will be shewn it upon application to John A. Washington or Bushrod C. Washington, living near it.

It is suppoand taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two week ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may shance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman. ry of the woman

PROPOSALS. By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker.

A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address,
To the People of the United States. THE world has seen enough of war-

iors and of Heroes-enough of Statesmen-of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sa ges in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only one Washington, but one Man, whose dangers in war, and labors in in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benc-fit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and val-our in execution; whom danger never Ship Timber, &c.

American Citizen. His career of giery through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE PAREWELL ADDRESS of Gene. ral Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong auxiety for the perma-nent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great impor-tance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings :the necessity of supporting public credit at home :--of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations : of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments: -are so many lessons of prodence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore hould not his legacy of wis-dom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our

To make it such, a the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Audress shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy

that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Earewell Address shall be published.

MR. GORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline :—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmunship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate orna-ments;—in the antre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and a propri-ate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen. The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to ex-ecute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical partexecuted by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring ma-terials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Indepen-dence, in the month of December next.
